LANGUAGE STUDY DAY: PROGRAMME

28th January 2015, Pembroke College, Oxford

This Study Day, the first event of the Language Centre's 2015 Academic Calendar, has been designed to complement and support students' work in school, whilst also encouraging them to think more broadly and creatively, beyond their curricula, about the study of languages and their associated cultures: both in familiar and unfamiliar languages. It will also be a unique opportunity for students to obtain valuable experience of university life, and of the breadth and depth of studying a language at university. This year for the first time, in partnership with Network for Languages London, University of Westminster, a group of primary school pupils and their teachers will be joining the cohort of A Level students, to gain valuable early experience of the wonders of the world of languages.
